What Is Ionic Footbath Therapy?

Your feet contain an average of 2,000 pores, and those pores are some of the largest in the body. There are more than 360 acupuncture points on the body, and more than 60 of them are located on the soles of the feet. Each acupuncture point correlates or connects to an organ and a specific area of the body, making the feet an ideal pathway for revitalizing well-being. The ionic footbath takes advantage of these “healing” points by stimulating them through immersing the feet in water that is ionized (hence, the name “ionic” footbath).

Some researchers and footbath manufacturers claim that the weak electrical current that runs through the water, to which salt is added, creates a balance of negative and positive ions that “neutralize” charged ions in the body. Then those neutralized particles are pulled out of the body, drawing toxins along with them. Some of these claimants also argue that ionizing footbaths over time create a healthier pH balance in the body.

- We do not diagnose.
- We make no attempt to cure any condition.
- We make no claim or imply any claim that suggestions are given to cure any condition.
- We do not claim that any supplemental material that we speak about will cure any condition or that its purpose is to treat any condition.

In combination with a healthy life style, ionic footbaths can help you to reduce stress and so help maintain long-term wellness, but they are not for everyone.

People who should not use ionic footbath therapy include:

- Women who are pregnant or nursing
- Anyone with a pacemaker or who takes heart-regulating medicines
- Anyone with a weak heart
- Anyone who has had an organ transplant who is taking medication to prevent rejection
- Anyone with open foot wounds, or broken or irritated skin on the feet
- Anyone taking any type of medication which if purged or excreted would incapacitate them mentally or physically
